

GETCHES-WILKINSON CENTER

for Natural Resources, Energy, and the Environment at Colorado Law

GWC Advisory Council

Michael Gheleta

Supervising Attorney

U.S. Department of the Interior

Michael Gheleta has over 30 years of experience practicing natural resources law in the public, private and non-profit sectors. He served as a Trial Attorney with the U.S. Department of Justice in Sacramento and Denver, handling litigation on behalf of federal agencies and officials concerning public lands, water, and environmental law. His litigation docket included representation of Presidents Clinton and Bush in multiple cases unsuccessfully challenging presidential establishment of national monuments. He has also held several positions with the U.S. Department of the Interior, including Acting Assistant Solicitor for Water and Power, Phoenix Field Solicitor, and Attorney Advisor. Mike is a member and former chair of the Advisory Council of the Getches-Wilkinson Center for Natural Resources, Energy and the Environment at the University of Colorado Law School, from which he graduated in 1988.