

Hiring Announcement: University of Colorado Law School

The University of Colorado Law School invites applications from entry-level and lateral candidates for a full-time clinical faculty position to lead the Getches-Green Natural Resources, Energy and Environmental Law Clinic at the start of the 2023-24 academic year. The position may be on the clinical teaching track or tenure track, depending on the candidate's interest and experience. Rank and appointment classification will depend on qualifications and experience.

We welcome applications from candidates at all levels of seniority. We seek candidates with great potential for, and/or records of, strong practice experience, engaged teaching, and/or innovative scholarship if seeking a tenure track appointment. Candidates must hold a J.D. from an ABA-accredited law school.

We strongly encourage applications from people of color, women, individuals with disabilities, LGBTQ people, veterans, and others whose background, experience, and viewpoints would contribute to the diversity of our faculty. The University of Colorado Boulder is committed to building a culturally diverse community of faculty, staff, and students dedicated to contributing to an inclusive campus environment. We are an Equal Opportunity employer, including veterans and individuals with disabilities.

Application materials will not be accepted via email. For more information or to apply, please see <https://cu.law/clinical-jobs>. For full consideration, candidates should apply by Sept. 1, 2022, although we recommend that you submit your materials as soon as possible.

For questions, please contact Professor Colene Robinson, Chair, Clinical Faculty Appointments Committee, Colene.Robinson@Colorado.EDU .
